REPORT ON COTTON CROP

CENSUS BUREAU ISSUED REPORT
TODAY ON COTTON GINNED
UP TO NOVEMBER 14.

By Associated Press.
Washington, D. C., Nov. 21.—The census bureau today issued its report on the amount of cotton ginned for the crop of 1907 up to November 14, showing a total of 7,311,202, counting round bales as half bales. The report for a similar period of 1906 was 8,562,242, and 7,501,179 for 1905. The number of active ginneries for this year's report was 25,671.

Dandierine.
Works wonders. It produces hair just as surely as rain and sunshine produces crops. It produces a thick growth of luxuriant hair when all other remedies fail. We guarantee Dandierine. LIFE SENTENCE FOR HIM.
Civil War Veteran Convicted of Criminal Assault.

Paris, Nov. 20.—A. A. Pierce, 74 years old, was convicted today in Judge Denton's court of criminal assault, and the jury returned a sentence of life imprisonment. The victim was the 7-year-old daughter of a farmer with whom he had lived about three months. The trouble occurred several months ago and the child was not physically injured.

Pierce had lived in northern Lamar county more than twenty years. He had no family and lived about with the farmers, doing odd jobs for his board. He was a veteran of the union army, claiming to have served under Pope, and draws a federal pension. The defense was previous good character and an attempt to prove periodical observation.

AN EVENING ATTACK.

The Easy Way Travelers Are Held Up In Savage Europe.

The Balkans can boast of cities which are miniature replicas of London and Paris, declares Mr. Harry De Windt, the author of "Through Savage Europe." These are civilized centers. But the remote districts are, as of yore, hotbeds of outlaws and brigandage, where you must travel with a revolver in each pocket and your life in your hand, and of this fact Mr. De Windt had unpleasant proof.

In the district called Ropitza an elderly Turk urged us to pass the night at a squalid inn where our driver had taken us. Failing to persuade us, the old villain disappeared and so effectively piled our driver with silkworms that he could not sit up on the box until sunset. It was therefore dark before we could set out, along a narrow road, hewn through dense pine forest.

But the game little team dashed along and must have covered about a mile when there came a violent jerk, followed by a crash, and I found myself in the dusty road within an inch or so of unpleasantly active iron heels. The driver had been buried by the shock clean over the horses' heads and lay motionless.

Fortunately my companion, like myself, was uninjured, and we set to work to repair the damage and assist the plunging and terrified ponies to regain their legs.

A pine tree which had fallen across the track was the cause of the disaster, but the carriage was luckily intact, and only a trace was broken, which I hastened to repair with the aid of rope and a jackknife. Then a curious thing happened.

"Look behind you," suddenly exclaimed my friend, and I turned hastily, to discover perhaps twenty silent, shadowy forms, which had apparently sprung out of the earth around us.

There was no "Your money or your life" business about this strange band, but its methods were quite as effective. "You will give us 200 dinars"—about 18—"and we will help you shift that tree," said the spokesman in Serbian, and I instantly recognized the voice as one I had heard that afternoon in the inn.

Resistance was of course useless, for a match was kindled by the speaker ostensibly to light a cigarette, but probably to reveal the gleam of firearms in every hand. They numbered more than twenty. We only three, and one of our number half stunned by the drink and terror.

There was no time for it but to pay up and look pleasant, and having removed the barrier, the robbers vanished as rapidly and silently as they had appeared on the scene.

College of Brazen Nose.

The old name of Brazen Nose (Brazen nose) arises from a combination of circumstances, some of which are among the most interesting features of the history of Oxford university. From the earliest period the members of the university and the townspeople were engaged in continual frolics, breaking out sometimes into such violence that bloodshed ensued. The townspeople, however, appear to have had the best of it, and so again and again their antagonists withdrew from the place and left Oxford without a university. At one time Northampton was the place of their retreat; at another Stamford, in Lincolnshire. At this last named place were the remains of a Norman gateway belonging to one of the colleges thus established. On the door there was of old an iron ring fixed in a nose of brass, and the college became known through that feature as Brazen Nose. On the return to Oxford, which took place after a little time, the members of the college took the name with them.—London Answers.

Terrors of the Skies.

In the aerial war of the near future man will be staggered not by the spectacle, but by the slaughter. For the spectator there will be little to see beyond a number of faint gray linear objects like whiststones silhouetted against the sky. But each of these dim colored objects is an airship which can easily carry from ten to fifty troops weighing from 110 to 165 pounds. The havoc wrought by a small fleet of Zeppelin airships would be frightful. It could pursue the fastest battleship and send it to the bottom. The battleship is at a terrible disadvantage. It is easily damaged from above. It has a speed of twenty-five knots against a speed of nearly thirty knots possessed by its adversary. Pursue the comparison to questions of cost and of crew. The Patrie, costing $60,000, with a crew of three, and Count Zeppelin's giant airship, costing $125,000, with a crew of six, are each capable of annihilating a battleship, value $10,000,000, with a crew of nearly 1,000 men.—Dr. Rudolf Martin in London Magazine.

The Traveler Guessed Well.
A capricious traveler in northern Arkansas stopped by a fence to criticize a near cornfield which met his disapproval. "Mighty small corn you have there!" he shouted to the man who was superintending the growth from a shady corner.

"Yep," said the Arkansas. "Planted the small kind."

"Looks mighty yellow to me for this time of year."

"Yep. Planted the yellow kind."

"Well," said the traveler severely, "I can't understand your method of farming. You won't get over half a crop there."

"Nope," said the Arkansas cheerfully. "You are shore a good guesser, stranger. Half a crop exactly, that's mine. I planted this on shares."

The Modesty of Women

Naturally makes them shrink from the delicate questions, the obnoxious examinations, and unpleasant local treatments, which some physicians consider essential in the treatment of diseases of women. Yet, if help can be had, it is better to submit to this ordeal, than let the disease grow and spread. The trouble is that so often the woman undergoes all the annoyance and shame for nothing. Thousands of women who have been cured by Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription write in corroboration of the cure which dispels all the examinations and local treatments. There is no other medicine so sure and safe for delicate women as Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It cures debilitating drains, irregularity and female weakness. It always helps. It almost always cures. It is strictly non-alcoholic, non-secret, all its ingredients being printed on its bottle-wrapper; contains no deleterious or habit-forming drugs, and every native medicinal root entering into its composition has the full endorsement of those most eminent in the several schools of medical practice. Some of these numerous and strongest of professional endorsements of its ingredients will be found in a pamphlet wrapped around the bottle, also in a booklet mailed free on request by Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y. These professional endorsements should have far more weight than any amount of the ordinary lay, or non-professional testimonials.

The most intelligent women now-a-days insist on knowing what they take as medicine instead of opening their mouths like a lot of young birds and gulping down whatever is offered them. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is of known composition. It makes weak women strong and sick women well.

Dr. Pierce's Medical Adviser is sent free on receipt of stamps to pay expense of mailing only. Send to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., 21 one-cent stamps for paper-covered, or 31 stamps for cloth-bound. If sick consult the Doctor, free of charge by letter. All such communications are held sacredly confidential. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets invigorate and regulate stomach, liver and bowels.

BIG FIRM FAILS.

Hamburg Concern With Liabilities of Two Million Suspends.

By Associated Press.
Hamburg, Germany, Nov. 21.—The firm of J. H. Moeller, manufacturers of shellac, resin, wax and candles, one of the largest firms of its kind in the world, suspended today. The liabilities are estimated at two million dollars, with assets of five hundred thousand. Some of the most important Hamburg and German banks, as well as a number of English firms, are involved in the failure. Following the failure of the Moeller firm, Krohn & Reinhold, an export firm, suspended business.
